Help Us Fight Fraud

It's a popular misconception that fraud is a victimless crime. Insurance fraud takes hard-earned money from the pockets of taxpayers, consumers and honest businesses. Estimates place the annual cost of workers' compensation fraud to the insurance industry in the billions. This leads to increased premiums, less money for investment and hiring, and higher prices for goods and services.

Workers' compensation fraud is a felony in New York State. The New York State Insurance Fund is dedicated to identifying, investigating and presenting cases to law enforcement for criminal prosecution of claimant, policyholder and medical provider fraud.

NYSIF is the leading carrier of workers' compensation insurance in New York State. NYSIF's Division of Confidential Investigations (DCI) is among the most active special investigation units in the country, working with local, state and federal authorities in the investigation, arrest and indictment of individuals and businesses suspected of fraud against NYSIF.

You can help us do more to fight fraud. This booklet contains information to help you identify and protect yourself against various types of claimant, policyholder and medical provider fraud, and help us by reporting fraud to NYSIF. Our fraud hotline number is 1-877-WCNYSIF (926-9743). Other ways to report fraud are listed on the following pages. All reporting is confidential.

Since 1995, NYSIF’s anti-fraud program has led to more than 1,950 arrests and over $250 million in restitution and estimated savings.

As New York’s largest workers’ compensation insurance carrier, NYSIF is committed to continuing the crackdown on fraud, and lowering the cost of doing business in New York. With your help, we can do more.

Red Flags of Claims Fraud

Q: How can I help in the fight against fraud?

A: Pay attention to the Red Flags.

Common Red Flags

Suspicious Account of Accident

- Injury is not witnessed
- No specific date, time and place of injury in claim report, injury details are sketchy in claim report
- Claimant's description of accident has inconsistencies, or is not believable
- Discrepancies between claimant's version and witnesses' accounts
- Discrepancies between claimant's account of injury and medical reports
- Rumors among other workers that the accident is illegitimate
- Accident happens in an area where claimant does not work

Claimant Behavior

- Claimant difficult to contact during working hours, answering machine screens calls, or post office box is residential address

Employment History

- Claimant is new on the job
- Injury reported after a serious problem on the job, such as disciplinary action, demotion, being passed over for promotion, etc.
- Claimant complains about job, supervisor or company prior to accident
- Injury occurs prior to anticipated layoff, termination, strike, etc.
- Claim reported after claimant has been terminated
- Accident occurs after claimant has excessive, unexplained time off

Generally, if you find clusters of “red flags” connected with a claim, the claim should be examined with care to determine if the claimant has lied about any material fact connected with the claim.

Personal History

- Claimant has taken out a private disability policy just prior to injury
- Claimant is having financial difficulties or domestic problems at time of claim

Suspicious Timing of Claim

- Injury reported to have happened early Monday, adjacent to a long holiday, or on the day of return from vacation
- Untimely delay in reporting injury to supervisor
- Injury occurs just before seasonal layoff, or corresponds with employee’s seasonal hobbies (hunting season, ski season, golf season)

Suspicious Nature and Extent of Injury

- Injury is not directly connected with claimant’s job duties
- Injury involves soft tissue and cannot be objectively confirmed
- Claimant refuses to return to work after being cleared for return by doctor
- Employee has history of reporting subjective injuries
- Injury inconsistent with activity at time of accident
- Claimant engages in high-risk leisure activities

Four Types of Policy Fraud

NYSIF detects, investigates and presents cases for prosecution of suspected workers' compensation policy fraud. Fraud committed by dishonest businesses has the most costly impact on the workers' compensation system and creates a competitive imbalance among competing businesses. These frauds are committed by:

Application Fraud

- Applicant misrepresents having had prior insurance with NYSIF to avoid paying past due premium
- Applicant misrepresents the nature of business
- Applicant misrepresents number of employees, payroll, or both

Premium Fraud

- Policyholder misrepresents amount of payroll, number of employees or nature of employment

Broker Fraud

- Broker misrepresents nature of business of clients with or without knowledge of policyholder

Non-Insured (Certificate) Fraud

- Business presents forged certificate of workers' compensation insurance to obtain mostly subcontracting jobs while workers remain uninsured, leaving the certificate holder liable

Protect Yourself From Fraud By Uninsured Businesses

NYSIF's electronic Certificate of Insurance System – eCERTS® – is available 24/7 at nysif.com, or through our mobile policy app, to policyholders, brokers and certificate holders to create, print, duplicate or email NYSIF certificates anytime, anywhere. Each NYSIF certificate has a unique validation number, allowing those who hire contractors or sub-contractors to identify authentic NYSIF certificates and forgeries. Contractors who accept fraudulent certificates from uninsured sub-contractors are liable for the sub-contractor's workers' compensation insurance premium. Validating a NYSIF certificate is as simple as verifying the validation code or scanning the QR code found on each certificate.

Medical Provider Fraud

Red Flags of Provider Fraud

NYSIF works hard to identify and investigate fraudulent bills by medical providers on behalf of injured employees. To the extent possible, please notify us if you see suspicious payments or learn of other fraud committed by health care providers regarding your injured employees. Some indicators of provider fraud include:

- Provider's reports appear identical for different patients with different conditions
- Much higher health care costs than expected for type of injury
- Attorney and provider are known to work in pairs
- Claimant has no recollection of services provided for medical bills
- Provider bills for dates of services falling on weekends or holidays
- Provider bills for dates of services after effective date of change of physician
- Provider bills multiple claims for a single injured worker
- Medical documentation does not support services billed

Why Should You Care?

Every dollar paid out because of insurance fraud must be made up by a dollar in additional premium. Increases in workers' compensation premiums are passed on by companies in higher prices for goods and services. Additionally, the hidden costs of fraud discourage businesses from giving raises, hiring or expanding, and force some companies out of business.

Fighting workers' compensation and disability benefits fraud is a team effort.
To remain successful in combating fraud,
NYSIF depends on cooperation from businesses and the public to report fraud.
